UNDERSTANDING Long-Term Care Planning

Strohschein Law Group LLC

Do you need assistance with the high cost of health care, qualifying for government health care programs, or help to protect your home and assets for you or your loved ones?

If you have found yourself asking these questions, we can provide you with a better understanding of long-term care planning.

What is Long-Term Care Planning?

Long-term care planning is a legal strategy that helps aging Americans plan for the high cost of different health care services as they age into their golden years of life. Proper long-term care planning can assist you or a loved one avoid the worry and drain that the cost of health care will have on your savings and your hard-earned asset you may have planned to pass down to your family members.

Long-term care is designed to meet health needs for an extended time. These services help aging Americans live as independently and safely as possible when they can no longer perform everyday tasks and activities on their own.

What is the Cost of Long-Term Care?

The cost of long-term care often shocks retirees and can place an extreme burden on themselves or their families. Long-term care expenses are uncertain and can fluctuate from very little to over $1 million. Attempting to plan for this yourself without a professional's help is dangerous, and even the most carefully thought out retirement plans would not be able to handle this spending shock.

Types of Long-Term Care Services Include:

Home Health Care

- Provides health care services that can be given in your home for an illness or injury.

Homemaker and Personal Care Services

- Provides individuals with the activities of daily living.

Friendly Visitor and Senior Companion Services

Senior Transportation Services

Emergency Medical Alert Systems

Nursing Home Facility

- Provides residential accommodations with health care, primarily to elderly individuals.

Adult Day Care

- Provides care and companionship for older adults who need assistance or supervision during the day.

Hospice Care

- Provides quality of life for people and their caregivers who are experiencing an advanced, life-limiting illness.

Respite Care

- A facility that temporarily takes care of a sick, elderly, or disabled person, providing relief for their usual caregiver.

Assisted Living Facility

- A housing system designed for seniors who need assistance with daily activities but not full-time care, like at a nursing home.

How to Pay for Long-Term Care?

Understanding how to pay for long-term care can be overwhelming. Depending on an individual's need for care, there are some options to consider for paying for long-term care services. Some of these options include:

- Medicaid Coverage
- Medicare Coverage
- Long-term Care Insurance

Each option holds its eligibility requirements and drawbacks depending on what type of services an individual needs. At Strohschein Law Group, we can help you or your loved ones understand the options available to you for paying for long-term care.

What is Medicaid Coverage?

Medicaid is a Federal and State program, and the rules vary from state to state. If you reside in Illinois and need Medicaid, then Illinois' Medicaid rules apply. If you or a loved one are concerned with the high cost of long-term care and qualifying for Medicaid, an elder law attorney can help. An elder law attorney who understands Illinois' specific Medicaid rules can help you navigate through the application and approval process.

How to Qualify for Medicaid Coverage

Illinois Medicaid gives individuals and families access to health care resources that they may not have otherwise. If you or a loved one need Medicaid benefits, specific eligibility requirements need to be met in Illinois.

To qualify for benefits, you must:

- Be over the age of 65; or
- Be blind or disabled; or
- Have a child, parent, or spouse in your household who is blind or disabled; and
- Have an annual household income below a determined amount.

The Medicaid application process can be complicated, and some families worry that they do not meet the household income level to qualify for care. Without the aid of Medicaid, the cost of a nursing home can wipe out your family's savings, retirement funds, and an inheritance for your loved ones or result in the loss of your home. Strohschein Law Group is on your side. We can help you navigate the complexities of Medicaid and create a plan that works best for your health care needs.

What is Long-Term Care Insurance?

Long-term care insurance can help avoid depleting your life savings to pay for nursing home care.

Long-term care insurance will help cover the financial risk that you may at some point in your life be placed into a nursing home by paying for some or all the expenses associated with nursing home care. It also frequently covers assisted living care or care in your home. But you will have to pay for the insurance policy for many years. There may be other options to reallocate your assets that help avoid that expense.

At Strohschein Law Group, we can advise you on the best option for your situation and needs for long-term care payment assistance. Long-term care insurance can be an option, but there are other options to consider. Our experienced elder law attorneys can help you reallocate your savings and valued assets to avoid paying for medical expenses not covered by insurance.

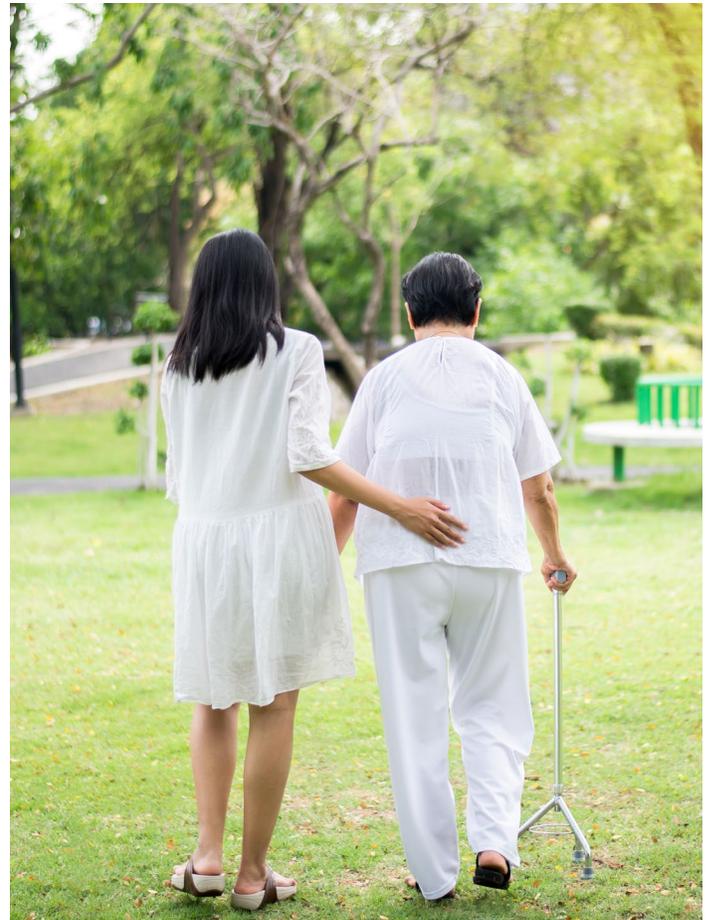

What is Medicare Coverage?

Medicare will pay for medically necessary acute care services and some long-term care services that meet specific criteria. Most long-term care non-medical services are not covered by Medicare, such as nursing home expenses or the services provided in the home for custodial-type care.

There are four specific types of long-term care services, listed below that Medicare will pay for, though certain conditions apply for most services to be covered:

- Care in a skilled nursing facility for up to 100 days per benefit period
- Services to treat medical conditions
- Services to prevent further decline due to medical conditions
- Hospice care

Medicare has its limitations and may or may not be the best option for your health care needs. Our firm can help you or your loved ones understand Medicare coverage or other options available to you for paying for long-term care.
